Midwest Litigation buys Jo Elaine Foster & Associates

St. Louis Business Journal

Midwest Litigation Services has acquired Glen Carbon, Ill.-based Jo Elaine Foster & Associates for an undisclosed amount.

Jo Elaine Foster, owner of Jo Elaine Foster & Associates, will join Midwest Litigation Service as manager of the firm's Illinois office in Edwardsville. In addition, four court reporters from Jo Elaine Foster & Associates will join Midwest Litigation, which has its headquarters in downtown St. Louis.

Foster said joining Midwest Litigation gives its clients access to Midwest Litigation's cutting-edge court reporting technology from anywhere. Foster's business handles 1,500 depositions a year and specializes in personal injury, workers' compensation, medical malpractice and arbitration, product liability and contract litigation.

Midwest Litigation, formerly Taylor & Associates, also has offices in Kansas City, Columbia, Jefferson City, Rolla and Springfield, Mo. The company offers court reporting services as well as video conferencing, photo and document scanning, digital video services and other services. The company has acquired several firms since the late 1990s.
